This book is dedicated to my children
Ruth, Philip, and James—who have asked,
“Who are our second cousins?”

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We sincerely appreciate the help and guidance we have received from many sources in the preparation of this book.

Among the most helpful sources of information, were those found in the Martin Memorial Library, of York, Pennsylvania; the Historical Society of York County; the Recorder of Deeds Office of York County; Prowells History of York County; Recorder of Deeds Office, and Register of Wills Office, Berks County, Reading, Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania State Library, Harrisburg; History of the Church of the Brethren in The Southern District of Pennsylvania; and family Bible records.

Much helpful information was also secured from members of families included in this book.

MARKEY

The surname MARKEY is one of a group of Germanic baptismal names derived from the Biblical forename Mark. When surnames were adopted in Europe in the twelfth to fourteenth centuries, they were derived from one of four sources:

- (1) Baptismal names—e.g. Jones (the son of Jon), Thomson (the son of Thomas), Wilkins (the son of William), Mendlesohn (the son of Mendle), etc.
- (2) Occupational names—e.g. Smith (the blacksmith), Pfister (the baker), Wertz (the landlord), Walker (the fuller), etc.
- (3) Local names (names from place of birth or residence). These are divided into two sections:
  - (a) from specific places e.g. Dieringer (from Thuringia), London (from London), Walton (from Walton), Debnam (from Debenham), etc.
  - (b) from topographical features—e.g. Hill (from a hill), Mark (from the boundary of a field), Holtz (from a wood), etc.
- (4) Descriptive names e.g. Small (from slight stature), Brown (from a dark complexion), etc.

The first group is perhaps the most interesting since the forenames giving rise to surnames are subject to many variations. Many names acquired diminutive suffixes—these were added to single syllable names or abbreviations of polysyllabic names—hence the forename Thomas is abbreviated to Thom or Tom and suffixes added, giving rise to the forenames Tomkin, Tomset and many others, each giving rise to surnames identical with the forename, or surnames with the filial suffix s or son added. This type of surname formation was common in the whole of Europe, each country adopting specific suffixes. Each country in a particular language group adopted its own peculiar suffixes and gave rise to corresponding surnames. In Switzerland, the Germanic name Mark (and variants), derived from the Old High German Marka, became Marki and Merki whereas in other Germanic countries, the suffix -el or -le was added to the same name giving rise to Markel, Mergell, Merkle and Mergele. Further suffixes can be added to names already existing with one suffix, hence the Germanic Markle becomes Markli in Switzerland and, with the suffix -in, Marklein, Merklein, Merklin and Merglin, in other Germanic countries. The survival of any particular surname depends to a great extent upon its ease of pronunciation, so names with more than two diminutive suffixes are too clumsy for survival and no derived surname exists. It is for this reason that, although there can be an almost infinite number of variants of any particular forename, only a few derived surnames exist.

The surname is fairly rare in Switzerland, but Markey (a variant of Marky) was found in the Duillier in the canton of Vaud before the Nineteenth Century whereas Merki was found in the cantons of Aargau, Berne, Neuchatel, Shaffhouse, and Zurich before, during and after the Nineteenth Century. The founder of the family surnames Merkle (or Merkli) dwelling in Ermatingen in the canton of Thurgau since about 1700, was thought to have come from Stuttgart at the time of the Reformation.

The surname Markey and many variants also exists in England, having been derived in the same way as the Germanic Marki.

Facsimile of the original survey of Jacob Markey's land, dated March 20, 1788.

In pursuance of a Warrant Granted to Lewis Waldemyer to agree for 150<sup>d</sup> dated the 28th of October 1765 I Surveyed for Jacob Markey on the 20th of 3rd mo. 1788 the above described Tract of Land Situated in York Township York County containing 97 1/2 96 ft and allowance Wm. Kersey Dy. St.

Home of Casper Markey. Later it was the home of Jacob K. Markey (4th Gen.), then it became the home of Henry P. Julius, who replaced the house with a new brick house (about 1906). The home is presently owned by Rufus M. Julius. This house was the largest house in the community when it was built, it had a center chimney and a fireplace in each room.

The Jacob Markey Family

On September 16, 1736 the ship "Princess Augusta", Samuel Marchant, Master, arrived in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The ship had sailed from Rotterdam, and Cowes, England. The ship's log contained two Markeys, as follows: Hans<sup>1</sup> Davit Merky, 17 years old and Marcus Merky, 45 years old<sup>2</sup>.

We believe David Merky to be our original American ancestor and before coming to America he was a native of Switzerland. We found through correspondence to Aargau Staatsarchiv, Aarau, Switzerland that there are presently a number of families in Switzerland with the name Markey, spelling it in different ways as follows: Marchy, Mark, Marke, Marki, Marky, Markli, and Marklin, being found in a number of towns and Kantons. The spelling Marke, which has been found on records as David's name, is the spelling used in the Kanton of Aargau. Aargau is mostly a rural Kanton, according to a census of 1941.

Many different spellings of the Mark-ey name have been used on local records, as follows: Markly, Mercky, Marky, Marki, Marcki and Marieke also Merky, Merkey and Marke.

There is a possibility that Marcus Merky was the father of David, but at this time we cannot be sure.

Marcus Merkey was born in 1691 and David was born in 1719, and died Nov. 1783, being a resident of Bethel Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania, at the time of his death.

David Merky was engaged in farming, owning 150 acres in Bethel Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania. He also owned a mill. He was on the tax list of Bethel Township in 1754 (name spelled Marke) also in 1779. The list shows him to be the owner of 150 acres, 3 horses and 6 cattle<sup>3</sup>. His name also appears with the defenders against the Indians at Fort Henry in Bethel Township in the year 1756, during the French and Indian war<sup>4</sup>.

In David Merkey's will we find his wife's name, Sarah. We do not know her maiden name. He had a son John, whom we believe to be the oldest son, a son Jacob who is our ancestor. David also had four daughters; Sarah, Rebecca, Barbara, and Magdalena.

Barbara Markly was on the list of taxables of Bethel Township, in 1779, being the owner of 51 acres<sup>5</sup>.

At this time we have no further information of John Merkey or the daughters of David Merkey.

Jacob Merkey, son of David Merkey was born August 2, 1750 and died August 10, 1810. He was married to Magdalena Stump, who was born April 4, 1766 and died April 27, 1850.

Sometime prior to 1782, Jacob Merkey migrated to York County, Pennsylvania. He was a veteran of the Revolutionary War. He was on the roll call of Captain George Geiselman's Company of York County (including males between 18 and 53 years of age) in the years 1782<sup>6</sup> and 1786<sup>7</sup>.

Records in the Recorder of Deeds office of York County show the following real estate transactions.

On August 28, 1787, Jacob Mercky, Yeoman, of Bethel Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania, purchased a tract of real estate containing 150 acres of land, in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, from Philip Wagner, blacksmith, and Barbara, his wife. He paid three hundred pounds of lawful money of Pennsylvania. (This is equivalent to approximately $1,458.00). Adjoining properties were owned by George Hertzog, Mark Imbler, Abraham Nunnemaker and others<sup>8</sup>.

On March 27, 1790, Jacob Markey (note change of spelling) purchased a tract of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, containing 10 acres and 143 perches of land, from Jacob Hoffman and Magdalena, his wife. Jacob Hoffman purchased this tract from the estate of Nicholas Yost<sup>9</sup>.

On April 20, 1796, Jacob Markey purchased a tract of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, containing 26 acres and 63 perches, from James Long and Anna, his wife. This tract was also owned previously by the estate of Nicholas Yost<sup>10</sup>.

On December 15, 1798, Jacob Markey purchased a tract of land in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania, containing 26 acres and 96 perches of land, from Rudolph Spangler and Doretha, his wife<sup>11</sup>.

All of the above tracts are adjoining properties. As of December 15, 1798, Jacob Markey owned all four tracts of land referred to above. On March 20, 1788, he had a survey made for 97 acres and 96 perches of land, this land being taken from the first mentioned 150 acre tract. This survey is on record at the Historical Society in York and a copy of it is printed on a separate page of this book. This piece of land was called "Fountain Head". "Fountain Head," as indicated by deed references and by the survey contained in this book, lies along Joppa Road.

Joppa Road, of which a part bears the same name today, was formerly the main road from York, Pennsylvania to Joppa, Maryland and later to Baltimore, Maryland. Joppa being the important seaport at that time. After some changes and relocation the main road became the Baltimore Pike and later the Susquehanna Trail.

Joppa road from York is now known as Grantley Road to a point where it intersects the Susquehanna Trail. For some distance it now bears the name Joppa Road, it continued on the east of the Trail to a short distance south of Jacobus, from where it again followed approximately the route now followed by the Trail to the Maryland Line<sup>12</sup>. This road was built in 1741 and was the second road in York County, the Lincoln Highway being the first.

This road was very important to the people of York County, as Baltimore was a chief market place. Later, transportation was also carried on by waterways which included the Conewago, the Little Conewago, the Codorus and Muddy Creeks, the Susquehanna river, and the Susquehanna and Tidewater canals. These canals were completed in 1839 and opened water travel to Havre De Grace, Maryland<sup>13</sup>.

It is believed that these tracts of land, which were owned by Jacob Markey for a period of approximately twenty years, are a part of the farm which was owned by Henry M. Harding from the year 1885 until the year 1940, when it was purchased by The York Water Company from the Henry M. Harding estate.

On March 30, 1807, Jacob Markey and Magdalena, his wife, sold Fountain Head, along with the other three tracts of land referred to above, to Frederick Luder, (now Leader) farmer, of Upper Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania, for the sum of four hundred and twenty pounds (approximately $2,041.00). There is no record to indicate what disposition was made of the 53 acres of land remaining from the 150 acre tract.

There is a release recorded in York County Court House, dated May 30, 1849, showing Casper Markey as the administrator of the estate of Jacob Markey, which states that Jacob Markey died a resident of West Manchester Township. It is signed by Michael Markey, Daniel Markey, Jacob Markey, Elizabeth Markey, Daniel Fahs, and Sarah Markey Fahs, his wife.

Jacob is buried in York Township in a burial plot on the farm that is now (1960) owned by Howard H. Perry.

The tombstone has been replaced near the original burial plot.

The burial plot was located 142 feet south of the tombstone and 10 feet east of the property line of the farms of Jacob H. Keeney and Howard H. Perry. The size of this plot was 32 feet by 30 feet.

The birth date on the tombstone (Aug. 2, 1764) of Jacob Markey is incorrect. This has been verified by Bible records, records in the Historical Society of York County, and military records.

The correct date being August 2, 1750.

Magdalena Markey is buried in the Markey Burial Grounds in Washington Township, near Davidsburg, York County, Pennsylvania. This burial plot is located on the farm which at that time was owned by Jacob and Magdalena's oldest son Casper.

After attending a love feast of the German Baptist Brethren Church<sup>14</sup> in Washington Township, some members of the family were attracted to the community and moved from York Township, making their home in Washington Township.

On March 27, 1835 Casper Markey bought a farm containing 42 acres and 113 perches in Washington Township from John Kunkle and his wife Margaret.

The farm was sold to Jacob King Markey (4th gen.), on July 28, 1849, it was later sold to Henry P. Julius and is now the property of Rufus Markey Julius (6th gen.).

Casper Markey; his brother, Jacob (3rd gen.); his sisters, Elizabeth and Sarah; also Sarah's husband, Daniel Fahs; are buried in this plot.

Among other members of the Markey family buried there, are Elizabeth and Anna Mary Fahs, daughters of Daniel and Sarah Fahs; Louisa A. and John Markey (5th gen.), an infant son and an infant daughter, all children of Jacob K. and Louisa Markey. A great-grandson of Jacob K. Markey, Jacob Kauffman, who died in infancy is also buried there.

Jacob (2nd generation) and Magdalena were the parents of seven children.

Casper, who was unmarried, owned the farm previously referred to. The barn on this farm was used by the German Baptist Brethren of the Big Conewago Congregation to hold their love feasts until the Bermudian Meeting House was built in 1856. The barn was hit by lightning and destroyed by fire in August 1912. The barn was later rebuilt.

Elizabeth was unmarried and lived with Casper.

Jacob (3rd generation) was also unmarried and lived with Elizabeth and Casper. Jacob was a veteran of the war of 1812<sup>15</sup>.

Michael married Elizabeth King, who was the daughter of Peter King (1774-1847) of York Township.

They lived on a farm near Spry in York Township. This farm was next owned by Michael's son, George, then by his grandson, John; later by his great-grandson, Elmer. The farm is now (1960) owned by Irvin Daehnke.

Michael was also the owner of the adjoining farm which is now owned by Maynard Kimes. This farm was also owned by members of the family for many years, being the home of Edwin J. Markey and his family, and later John M. Godfrey and his family had their home there.

Michael was a farmer and a woodworker, he had a shop on his farm where he made spinning wheels and reels.

Michael was a member of the Codorus congregation of the German Baptist Brethren, near Loganville and Elizabeth was a member of Plymires (St. Johns) Reformed Church<sup>16</sup>, near Dallastown. They walked to church, the distance to Plymires Church from their home was approximately six miles.

Michael and Elizabeth are buried in Stumps Union Cemetery, in York Township.

They were the parents of six children. Noah, who was the oldest, was a school teacher and was known as a mathematician. He died when he was 32 years old. He is buried in Stumps Union Cemetery.

George, see page 27; Jacob K. (4th generation), see page 37; Sarah who never married, lived in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, James and Elizabeth McDowell, for many years. She was a member of the Codorus Church of the Brethren and is buried in Stumps Union Cemetery; David, see page 41; and Elizabeth see page 87.

Sarah married Daniel Fahs, son of John and Eva (Feiser) Fahs. They lived on a farm in Paradise Township. They were the parents of four children. Elizabeth who was not married, died at the age of twenty-eight years; Anna Mary who died when she was six years old; Sarah, see page 111; and Amanda, see page 115.

Daniel (3rd Gen.) was married in 1884 to Sarah King who was the daughter of Peter and Susan Miller King.

Early in life Daniel learned the hatter's trade at York. He spent much time in Reading, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. In 1850 he purchased a farm in York Township and there he continued making hats along with his farming. This farm is located near Spry, along the road from York to Dallastown. He was widely known for the fine hats he made and could not always supply all that were demanded.

Daniel and Sarah were German Baptist Brethren. They are buried in Stumps Union Cemetery. They were the parents of four children. David J. who was not married, was a farmer, helping with the family farm and after the death of his parents, he became the owner of the farm. This home is now occupied by Kate Deitz, whose husband was a nephew of David. His sister, Mary, was unmarried and had her home with David. Louisa married Edwin M. Deitz, see page 119. Susan did not marry; she also had her home with David. Susan and Mary were members of Zion Reformed Church of York. David was a member of the Church of the Brethren and once served as auditor of York Township.

He was proprietor of another farm in York Township, which he gave to the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. The church is located on this farm and Stumps Union Cemetery is also on the same farm.

David J., Susan and Mary are buried in Stumps Union Cemetery.

John (3rd generation) and his wife, Mary lived in Paradise Township where John was engaged in farming.

They had a daughter, Sarah, who married William H. Miller<sup>20</sup>. John, Mary and their daughter, Sarah, are buried in the Altland Meeting House Cemetery near Big Mount, Paradise Township. This is all the information we have on the family of John.

There are two distinctive characteristics of the Markey family: (1) That of farming and selling their products at the local markets—a local paper<sup>17</sup> printed “no Markeys, no markets”—and (2) Their church life—a large number of them were affiliated with the Church of the Brethren while many others were affiliated with the Reformed Church.

The Family of George and Lucinda Hess Markey

George Markey was the son of Michael and Elizabeth King Markey.

George and Lucinda lived on a farm near Spry, York County, Pennsylvania, which was formerly owned by his father.

They were the parents of seven children.

John and his wife, Rebecca, lived on the same farm that was previously owned by his father and grandfather. After the death of John the farm was purchased by John's son, Elmer J. Markey.

Elmer J. Markey attended the York County Academy and taught school in York Township for two years. He then started farming.

He attended Christ Lutheran Church of Spry, and was the superintendent of the Sunday School for sixteen years. He died in 1932. His wife and children remained on the farm until 1952. The family then moved to Spry. His wife, Henrietta Schaeffer Markey, died in 1959.

Ida, daughter of John Markey, married Francis Bupp. They were farmers attending the Central Market in York. Later they moved to a farm near Manchester, Maryland. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bupp were members of Salem Union Church of Jacobus. Their son, Ervin, gave his life for his country during World War II.

Edwin J. and his wife, Jennie, lived on a farm near Spry. They were the parents of eight children.

Mary Jane died when she was eleven years old having contracted diphtheria.

Lucinda and her husband, Charles W. Stine, lived in Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

Charles was the son of a Union Officer of the Civil War. He was a graduate of Gettysburg College and of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. After graduating he taught German and was professor of mathematics at Northwestern University.

Later he returned to York County, Pennsylvania.

He then married Lucinda and engaged in teaching school in Dallastown.

He was Superintendent of the Schools of York County for twenty-one years.

They were the parents of one daughter, Mabel, who married H. Clifford Shenberger.

Mabel was a graduate of Millersville State Teachers College.

Lucinda, her husband and their daughter were members of Christ Lutheran Church of Dallastown. They are buried in Dallastown Union Cemetery.

Sarah and her husband, Samuel K. Rojahn, lived in Dallastown, where their children were born and reared.

Sarah and Samuel were both occupied by making cigars; Samuel was a foreman in the factory.

They were members of the United Brethren Church of Dallastown. For a number of years Samuel led the Sunday School orchestra, sang with the choir and taught a Sunday School class.

They are buried in Stump's Union Cemetery.

William H. Markey and his wife, Magdalene, lived in Weiglestown, Pennsylvania, where William was engaged in blacksmithing. He also painted and repaired wagons and carriages. Their home was conveniently located between the home of William's Uncle Jacob and the other relatives, most of whom lived in York Township. When visiting the folks would often stop with William and his family. There they would get water for the horses and often they would stay for a meal and a visit.

Amanda and her family resided in Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

The Family of

Jacob K., Louisa Brenneman and Catherine Gross Markey

Jacob King Markey was born in York Township near Spry, Pennsylvania. He was the son of Michael and Elizabeth King Markey. Early in life he went to live with his Uncle Casper Markey and his Aunt Elizabeth Markey, (sister of Casper) in Washington Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

He was a farmer and land owner. He purchased his Uncle Casper's farm; later this farm was owned by his son-in-law, Henry P. Julius. The farm is now owned by Rufus Julius, grandson of Jacob K. Markey. It is on this farm that the Markey Burial Grounds are located.

Jacob was a member of the Lower Conewago Congregation of the Church of the Brethren, where he was a trustee of the church. He took a keen interest in politics and education.

His first wife, Louisa, was born in Washington Township. She was the daughter of Martin Brenneman, who had a weaving business.

His second wife, Catherine, was the daughter of Joel Gross of Kralltown.

Louisa is buried in the Lutheran Church Cemetery at East Berlin. Jacob and Catherine are buried in the cemetery at the Bermudian Church of the Brethren, near Davidsburg.

Louisa was the mother of John, William, Ida, and Louisa.

Catherine was the mother of James.

John died when he was twenty-five days old.

William H. was a teacher; he was also a medical student at the University of Michigan, located in Ann Arbor. He had planned to enroll in the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia in the fall of the year in which he died. (1885)

Ida and her husband, Henry P. Julius, lived on the home farm until 1919 when they moved to Dover, where they spent the remainder of their lives.

Henry was the son of a farmer, and was born in Holtzschwam; he was a teacher, clerk and farmer. He attended school at Manchester, Maryland, and East Berlin Normal School. Later he graduated from Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, New York.

Louisa died when she was five years old.

James G. and his wife, Ella, lived in Dover Township for some time.

James was a graduate of Shippensburg State Normal School. He taught school in Dover Township for many years. They later moved to Mechanicsburg where James taught school for several years. They then moved to Chambersburg where James was an agent for the Massachusetts Life Insurance Company.

Ella was the daughter of John B. Bosserman, a farmer and banker. Her maternal grandfather was Emanuel Gochenour, a Brethren minister of the Lower Bermudian Meeting House.

James and Ella are buried in the cemetery at Mummert's Meeting House near East Berlin, Pennsylvania.

SKETCH BY RICHARD MARKEY, GREAT GRANDSON OF DAVID AND SON OF WALTER.

The Family of David and Elenora Shenk Markey

David Markey (4th Gen.) Home — The house was built by David in 1873; the addition was built about 1900. The exterior of the house has had only minor changes since it was built. The home was later owned by his son, Harry; and is now owned and occupied by Harry's son-in-law, Jacob H. Keeney and family.

The Family of David and Elenora Shenk Markey

David Markey was born in 1839 to Michael Markey and Elizabeth King Markey on a farm in York Township (west of Spry), York County, Pennsylvania.

David married Elenora Shenk who was the daughter of Augustus Shenk (1810-1873) and Mary Peters Shenk (1809-1892) (on the tombstone the name is spelled Schenck). Elenora was born on a farm in York Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The farm was later owned by Henry Fahs, son-in-law of David Markey. Then Henry Fahs' son Clayton bought the farm; it is now (1960) owned by Robert H. Toomey. The present house on the farm was built by Augustus Shenk in 1855.

Augustus Shenk and his wife, Mary, are buried in the cemetery at Salem Union Church at Jacobus, Pennsylvania.

David Markey was a harness maker by trade. He and his wife, Elenora, lived in York, Pennsylvania, on the east side of South George Street, just south of King Street. Daniel, Amanda and Ellen were born at this residence.

In 1866 the family purchased a farm in York Township from Peter Kornbau. Here the other children were born and reared. In 1905 David's son, Harry, bought the farm. At the present time (1960) the farm is owned by Harry's son-in-law, Jacob H. Keeney.

The present house on this farm was built by David in 1873.

David and his wife, Elenora, were members of the Codorus Church of the Brethren, where David served as a deacon having been elected in 1881.

In 1883 David was elected to serve as a member of a committee to build The First Church of the Brethren, located at King Street and Belvidere Avenue, York, Pennsylvania.

David died in 1904. Rev. Jacob M. Myers, David Y. Brillhart and Christian Ness were in charge of the funeral service, using this scripture text, "There remaineth therefore a sabbeth rest for the people of God." Heb. 4:9.

Elenora died in 1932. Rev. S. B. Myers, R. S. Krout and I. M. Bowser were in charge of her funeral service, using this scripture text—"Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a shock of grain cometh in, in its season." Job 5:26.

They are buried in Stumps Union Cemetery.

They were the parents of fourteen children.

Daniel was a farmer in York Township. He and his wife, Elenora, were members of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. Daniel served on the building committee when the church was built in 1909.

Elenora was the daughter of Washington and Delilah Immel Striebig.

Amanda and her husband, George Striebig, were members of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. George served on the building committee of the church. They lived on a farm in York Township, near Spry, Pennsylvania.

One of their grandsons, Wayne Smeigh, gave his life for his country in Germany during World War II.

George was the son of Washington and Delilah Immel Striebig.

Ellen died when she was four years old having contracted diphtheria.

Annie and her husband, Henry Fahs, were members of the same church. They also lived on a farm in York Township for some years. The farm was previously owned by Annie's grandfather, Augustus Shenk.

Later they lived on a smaller farm near Jessop's schoolhouse.

Henry was the son of Solomon and Anna M. Glatfelter Fahs.

Phoebe died when she was twenty-four days old.

David and his wife, Ella, lived on a farm in York Township, near Spry. Ella still resides on the farm, continuing the business of marketing. Ella is a member of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. David was a member of the same church, having served on the Building Committee of the church.

Ella's parents were Augustus and Elenora Hartman Leader.

Infant son — died at birth.

Mazie and her husband, Oscar Heiner, lived at 1315 Mt. Rose Avenue, York, Pennsylvania. Oscar was a butcher, having a shop at the rear of his residence. Mazie was a member of the Second Church of the Brethren of York.

Jacob and his wife, Lillie, lived on a farm in York Township. After Lillie died he married Lydia. They were members of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren.

Jacob served on the Building Committee of the church, also as a deacon, having been elected in 1912 and as treasurer of the church.

Lillie was the daughter of Isaac and Mary Walters Buser.

Lydia was the daughter of Martin and Elizabeth Keeney Hartman.

Michael and his wife, Veartie, also lived on a farm in York Township. Michael is living on the same farm at the present time. Before engaging in farming Michael taught school in York Township for seven years. He was a graduate of The York County Academy. Michael and his wife were members of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. Michael was elected as a deacon in 1912 and to the ministry in 1916. He served as Elder-in-Charge of the congregation from 1928 to 1956. He is still active in the ministry at the age of eighty-three years.

Veartie was the daughter of Jonathan and Sarah Harbold Glatfelter.

Harry and his wife, Mary, lived on a farm in York Township, known as the home farm of the family — having bought the farm from his father, David. Mary continues to live on the farm. She is a member of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. Harry was also a member. Serving as a deacon, he was elected in 1922. He served as trustee and treasurer of the church.

Mary's parents were Samuel W. and Susanna Beeler Keeney.

Lucy and her husband, Thomas Hamberger, lived on a farm in York Township between Spry and Dallastown. Thomas is now living at the same home. He is a member of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren. Lucy was also a member. They were the parents of fifteen children. They are all living at this time (1960), the youngest one being thirty-five years old.

The parents of Thomas were John W. and Barbara E. Hess Hamberger.

Oliver and his wife, Tillie, were married in 1906 and were in the delicatessen business for about thirty-five years. Previous to that he was a teacher in the York County schools and a graduate of the York County Academy.

He was a lifelong member of the Church of the Brethren and a charter member of the Madison Avenue Church of the Brethren. His wife is presently residing at 510 West Jackson Street where they made their home for thirty-seven years.

Tillie's parents were Jonathan and Sarah Harbold Glatfelter.

Charles and his wife, Gertrude, lived on a farm in York Township. Gertrude now lives at 2115 South Queen Street, York, Pennsylvania.

She is a member of the Jacobus Evangelical United Brethren Church. Charles was a member of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren, having served as a trustee of the church. Before starting to farm, Charles taught school for eight years. He was a graduate of The York County Academy. He served as a member of the York Township School Board for eighteen years.

Gertrude's parents were Phares and Amanda Bailey Geiselman.

David, Elenora and their eleven children attended the markets in York, selling their vegetables, fruits, meat and poultry products.

When the Farmer's Market — York's oldest market — opened in 1866, David took a stand there. When he died Michael took the same stand and continues his marketing at the same place. In 1878 the City Market was opened; again David was among the first to rent a stand, which was taken over by his son, Harry. Harry's widow, Mary, continues marketing at the same stand.

Ninety members of the family including Elenora, the eleven children, grandchildren and great grandchildren attended Jessop's school.

The name David has been given to thirty or more members of the family. (Including middle names.)

Mazie and her husband, Oscar Heiner, are buried in the Emmanuel Reformed Cemetery at Freysville, Pennsylvania. Charles is buried in the Mount Rose Cemetery, York, Pennsylvania. The other members of the David Markey family are buried in Stump's Union Cemetery in York Township.

Thirty homes in a two square mile area near Leader's Heights are occupied by descendants of David and Elenora Markey.

There are five hundred twenty-nine descendants including ten sets of twins and two sets of triplets.

One hundred ninety-eight married into the family making a total of seven hundred twenty-seven in the David Markey family.

The Family of James and Elizabeth Markey McDowell

In the year 1851 when James was seventeen years old, he moved with his parents to a farm now known as the Jesse Anderson farm in the vicinity called "Possum Run", south of Chestnut Hill.

When he married Elizabeth, who was the daughter of Michael and Elizabeth King Markey, they started farming there. At this home their children were born.

At the turn of the century they bought "Butcher" Fisher's farm—located west of Dallastown, Pennsylvania—where they spent the remainder of their lives.

James and Elizabeth spent their entire lives on the farm. Their children also were farmers, having lived in the same vicinity.

Elizabeth's sister, Sarah Markey, who never married, lived in the home of James and Elizabeth most of her life.

James and Elizabeth are buried in the Union Cemetery at Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

James and Elizabeth were the parents of nine children.

Emma and her husband, Peter Raab, were farmers living in York Township near Raabs' School, west of Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

After Peter's death his son, James W. Raab, lived on the farm where he engaged in fruit growing. Earlier in life he taught school and worked in a bank for several years.

James' son, P. Joseph Raab, now lives on the Raab homestead, continuing the fruit growing business.

James, Jr., is in the real estate business.

Henry is a minister, residing in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Walter Raab attended the School for the Deaf in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. There he met the girl who became his wife;

they now live in a home located on the Raab Homestead.

George Raab is a Doctor of Education, living in New York State.

Lois Raab Kressler is a housewife.

Annie and her husband, Howard H. Fitz, lived on a farm south of York near Spry.

The farm was formerly known as the Billet Farm.

Annie and her husband were members of The New Fairview Church of the Brethren. Howard served on the Building Committee of the church. He was superintendent of the Sunday School for eleven years. He also served as a deacon being elected in 1912.

They were the parents of eight children who were engaged in the marketing business.

Howard was the son of Isaac and Mary Gotwalt Fitz. Annie and Howard are buried in Stump's Union Cemetery.

Mary and her husband, Jeremiah Sechrist, lived on a farm near Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

Mary spent much of her time doing fine needlework.

They were members of St. Paul's Reformed Church of Dallastown. They are buried in the Union Cemetery at Dallastown.

Martha and her husband, Jacob Hovis, lived on a farm near Spry Pennsylvania.

They were members of St. Paul's Reformed Church of Dallastown.

David died when he was nine years old. He is buried in the Union Cemetery of Dallastown.

Agness and her husband, Isaac McDowell, lived on the farm near Dallastown, formerly owned by Agness' parents. Agness resides there at this time.

They were members of St. Paul's Reformed Church of Dallastown.

Five of their children chose school teaching as their professions. One of their grandsons is a professor of chemistry at the University of Maryland.

Sarah and her husband, Robert Workinger, lived in Red Lion, Pennsylvania, where Sarah still resides.

Sarah is a member of St. John's Reformed Church of Red Lion and Robert was a member of the same church. Early in life Robert was a farmer.

James and his wife, Ellen Herbst, lived on a farm in York Township, near Dallastown, Pennsylvania.

James was a well-known citizen of the county. He taught school for seven years in York and Windsor Townships. He served as York Township Tax Collector for a period of twelve years and as a Commissioner of York County for twelve years. He was a member of St. Paul's Reformed Church of Dallastown. He is buried in the Dallastown Union Cemetery.

His wife, Ellen, is living in York Township and is a member of the New Fairview Church of the Brethren.

Ellen's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herbst.

Lucinda and her husband, Clarence Myers, made their home in Red Lion, Pennsylvania. Clarence was a cigar manufacturer. Lucinda continues to live in Red Lion. She is a seamstress. She is a member of St. John's Reformed Church of Red Lion as Clarence was also.

Stewart L. Reichard Family — l. to r. David, Ruth, Steven, Stewart and in front Michael.

The Family of Ephraim and Sarah A. Fahs Stouffer

Sarah Fahs and Ephraim Stouffer were united in marriage in 1866.

Sarah was the daughter of Daniel and Sarah Markey Fahs.

They were the parents of one daughter, Emma Jane.

They were members of the Bermudian Church of the Brethren.

Ephraim was a farmer and they settled on the Fahs homestead at Bigmount in Paradise Township. He served as a school director for a number of years. After they retired from farming they moved into a home in the village and their daughter and son-in-law, the William Spanglers, took over the farming of the Fahs homestead. Although William Spangler was a miller by trade, they continued farming until 1911 when they moved to York, Pennsylvania. Two years later William returned to his trade as a miller and bought a flour mill in Zions View. Here he continued in business until his death in 1915.

After William's death, Emma and her children continued to live at 714 Pennsylvania Avenue, in York.

The Family of Christian and Amanda Fahs Raffensperger

Christian and his wife, Amanda Fahs Raffensperger, who was the daughter of Daniel and Sarah Markey Fahs, lived on a farm near Mulberry in Washington Township, York County, Pennsylvania.

They were members of the Church of the Brethren.

Christian died when he was 47 years old. After his death Amanda lived in Hanover, Pennsylvania. She was a charter member of the Hanover Church of the Brethren, when it was organized in 1902.

Christian and Amanda are buried in the cemetery at Mummerts Meeting House near East Berlin, Pennsylvania.

They were the parents of five children.

Harvey died at the age of 14 years, and is buried in the Altland Meeting House cemetery.

Ella and her husband, Jesse B. Webster lived in Hanover, Pennsylvania. They too, were charter members of the Hanover Church of the Brethren. Jesse was a deacon of the church, having served as the first secretary of the Hanover Church.

They, with their son Paul, later moved to California where Jesse worked on the Santa Fe Railroad.

Ella and Jesse are buried in California.

Clayton and his wife, Irene Johnson, lived in Philadelphia where Clayton was manager of Child's Restaurants of that city.

Daniel and his wife, Martha Yeaple, lived in York, Pennsylvania.

Daniel's work was cigar making. Daniel was a member of the First Church of the Brethren of York. Martha is presently residing at 744 Village Road, York, Pennsylvania, and is a member of The Duke Street Methodist Church.

Amos was occupied as a baker and resided in St. Louis, Missouri. He died at an early age.

The Family of Edwin M. and Louisa Markey Deitz

Edwin Minnich Deitz was six weeks old when his parents moved to a farm near Brillhart's Station, York County, Pennsylvania. He grew up on the farm. This farm was later known as Black's farm and is now (1960) owned by Clair E. Richcrick.

Edwin married Louisa A. Markey. Louisa was the daughter of Daniel and Sarah King Markey. They farmed with his parents and later became owners of the homestead. They remained on the farm as long as they lived.

Edwin and Louisa were members of Zion Reformed Church of York. They are buried in Stump's Union Cemetery.

They were the parents of four sons.

William Markey Deitz left the farm early in life for work in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After a short time he returned to York where he found employment with Lindemuth Engineering Company. There he was foreman in charge of installing heating systems. He remained with the company for thirty years.

He married Elsie Senft. They were the parents of two children. They made their home in York on Maple Street, where their son now lives.

They were members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of York, Pennsylvania.

Elmer D. Deitz started work with York Ice Machinery Company when he was seventeen years old. He continued there for thirty-one years, as a foreman and a member of the "25 year club."

Elmer and his wife, Kate Hengst, lived on Hawthorne Street in York for fourteen years. After the death of his Uncle David J. Markey, he moved his family to the Markey homestead, which was formerly the Daniel Markey home and engaged in farming. There Elmer and Kate cared for his Aunt Mary Markey and Aunt Susan Markey. He died suddenly on August 10, 1934.

They were the parents of six children.

Kate resides on the same farm. She has among her possessions a family heirloom, a Bible published in German in 1763 by Christopher Sauer, Jr. This was a second edition, being the first printing of Bibles on American made paper. This Bible is believed to have been Jacob Markey's (2nd gen.) as the first entry on the family record is that of his birth, then there are records of some of his children.

It was very likely passed on to his son Daniel who gave it to Elmer and Kate.

Elmer and Kate were members of St. Paul's Evangelical Reformed Church of Dallastown. Kate is still an active member.

Kurwin Deitz remained on the family farm until the passing of his parents. Then he married Emma Gingerich. They then moved to a small farm near Dallastown. They attended the markets in York.

They had one daughter who now owns the farm and lives there with her family and her mother.

They are members of Salem Lutheran Church of Jacobus.

Howard Deitz at the age of seventeen went to work at York Ice Machinery Co. He was a woodworker by trade and a member of the "25 year club."

Howard and his wife, Cora Schrum, were the parents of two children. They lived in Foustown for some time and later on West King Street in York.

They were members of Bethany Evangelical Reformed Church.

Their daughter, Esther Hamme, is a teacher of piano and serves as organist for Memorial Reformed Church.

Howard met an accidental death on September 12, 1940, when he fell from a roof.

Cora now resides in Park Village, York, Pennsylvania.
